

Mirjam Macchi Howell is Head of the Climate, Disaster Risk Reduction (DRR), and Environment (CDE) Section at the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC). The SDC CDE Section serves as a center of excellence, contributing to policy dialogue and norm setting, advising SDC units, fostering strategic partnerships, and supporting capacity development and institutional learning. Ms Macchi brings extensive experience in environmental program management, policy advising, and leadership in sustainable development. She has held key roles in government agencies, including as a section head at the Swiss Federal Office for the Environment (FOEN) and at SDC. She has also worked with several multilateral organisations, including the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) and the International Centre for Integrated Mountain Development (ICIMOD). Her areas of expertise include climate change adaptation and mitigation, disaster risk reduction, biodiversity conservation and gender equality. Ms Macchi holds an MSc in Geography from the University of Bern and a Certificate of Advanced Studies (CAS) in Development and Cooperation from ETH Zurich and is fluent in five languages.
